Candidates job market outlook improves in 2018

Anticipated outlook is brighter by 10%

Chart 1. Ranking of countries for 2018 job outlook

Candidates reported an overall sentiment that it will be easier to find a job in 2018 compared to 2017. Job outlook scores are on a scale of 1-7, where 7 is much better, 4 the same, 1 is much worse.

The improved regional outlook can be attributed to the fact that the Asia economy is projected to maintain its growth momentum averaging 5.2% GDP growth per year from 2018 to 2022. Regionally, there is a new wave of emerging technologies set against the arrival of the digital economy. Candidates expect a high likelihood of the job market to diversify with different types of skills and job (average score 5.16) to meet the emerging digital technologies that will affect jobs across the spectrum from manufacturing to services.

Almost half the employers are planning to increase headcount

Chart 2. Comparison of candidate job outlook sentiment in 2018 and 2017. “Gloomier” is for respondents who scored 1,2 or 3, “same” those who scored 4 and “brighter” for those who scored 5,6 and 7.

Chart 3. Table of comparison of hirer’s hiring plans in 2018 and 2017

Chart 4. Peak hiring season

The buoyant outlook is backed by the trend of the majority of companies (47%) hiring to expand and increase headcounts. Hiring freeze has reduced from 7% to 2%. Overall, 91% of hirers in the region are recruiting more talent compared to 84% in 2017. Peak hiring season happens in March, right after the Chinese Lunar New Year celebrations, with another increase at mid-year.
Candidates are a little more optimistic of the fact that searching for a new job will be easier this year (3.83 in 2018 compared to 3.77 in 2017). As the adoption of online job searches increases, so does candidate confidence in landing the right job. The most preferred job hunting channels are online job portals (36%) and company career websites (18%).

Work-life balance is a key deal clincher, as survey results reveal that the most utilised benefits are reduced work hours (12% offered, 9% used), work from home (15% offered, 11% used) and flexible work hours (28% offered, 21% used).

This survey reveals the most desired benefits that may engage and retain talent are childcare support (41% desired, 12% offered), flexible work hours (53% desired, 28% offered) and medical coverage for family (64% desired, 40% offered).

Demand for diverse types of skills and jobs still high amid concerns of increased competition

- The job market will diversify with new types of skills and jobs 5.16 (2018) vs 5.20 (2017)
- The competition in my field of specialisation will become tougher 5.49 (2018) vs 5.52 (2017)
- Searching for a good job will be easy 3.83 (2018) vs 3.77 (2017)

Candidate’s perceived drivers (view) of job outlook. Scoring is based on a scale of 1-7 where 1 is perceived to be least likely to happen and 7 most likely to happen

Key actionable insights for hirers

- Reach out to attract and interact with potential talents via their company websites and job portals as candidates constantly monitor the job market online.
- Offer opportunities to reskill valued employees to address the disruptions faced by industries globally.
- Map the ideal match for work culture and compensations to heighten the “employee experience” via effective HR tools that can accurately pick up feedback on desired benefits. This will also save cost on unused and unappreciated benefits.

Key actionable insights for hirers

- Focus more efforts on advertising vacancies on online job portals rather than social media. 55% candidates preferred using online job boards compared to 2% using social media for job hunting.
- The accounting/audit/tax industry is ripe for cherry-picking as the job market for this sector is not growing (candidates scored 2.80 for “Job opportunity in my industry will grow”) and competition is getting tougher (candidates scored 5.10 for “Competition in my field of specialisation will become tougher”)

An expanding job market, driven by new foreign companies and startups, resulting in more jobs with new types of skills

Construction, banking and computer IT software lead with annual salary increments and computer IT software tops guaranteed bonus pay out

Gearing up for greener pastures

Key actionable insights for hirers

- Benchmark current market rates for salaries to retain valued talents
- Provide attractive benefits to meet talent’s needs, like medical coverage for their families, 69% desired and only 38% offered and education allowances 34% desired, only 8% offered
- Allow flexible work hours where appropriate as 60% of candidates expressed a desire for this while only 28% are offered
The Philippines is experiencing robust GDP growth at a rate of 6.7%, which is predicted to continue throughout 2018. In addition to that, big ticket infrastructure projects are set be launched this year, creating thousands of new jobs. Survey results show that the construction/engineering industry is paying out the highest guaranteed bonuses and annual salary increments.

Top ranked in the region and maintains almost the same level of optimism in 2018

Employers are continually hiring from 92% (2017) to 95% (2018)

Restrained candidate confidence in the job market with concerns of stiffer competition

Candidate’s perceived drivers (view) of job outlook. Scoring is based on a scale of 1-7 where 1 is perceived to be least likely to happen and 7 most likely to happen

Key actionable insights for hirers

- Candidates prefer to hunt for jobs online (online job boards 32%, company websites 27% and social media 6%) rather than at trade fairs (4%).
- Attract talents with benefits that are highly desired but less offered in the market, such as medical coverage for their families (71% desired yet only 36% offered), pension plans (67% desired and 28% offered) and non-monetary incentives like flexible work hours (67% desired and 29% offered).
The job market is perceived to be recovering and job hunting activity is on the rise. Hirers report a hiring freeze which has declined from 21% in 2017 to 5% in 2018, in line with the nation’s moderate economic growth.

Methodology

Methods and sampling

The following report is based on a survey of employees and hirers on the subject of job outlook and compensation and benefits across seven countries, namely Hong Kong, Indonesia, Philippines, Malaysia, Singapore, Thailand and Vietnam. The purpose of this report is to gain detailed insight into the 2018 job market outlook, focussing on selected angles:

- How easily do candidates expect to find jobs in 2018 compared to 2017?
- What are the candidates’ views on job outlook?
- What are the candidates’ job hunting intentions / trends?
- Some insights on employers’ hiring plans and hiring season
- Salary trends and annual bonus pay out trends
- Desired and valued benefits

This information will provide useful insights to employers to help develop and enhance recruitment strategies as well as to craft HR initiatives to attract, engage and retain talent they need.

The questionnaire was developed with a HR academic research expert. A standardised format was used for regional deployment with localised language utilised as needed per country.

A 7-point scale was used for the outlook questionnaire, where 1 was worse than 2017, 4 the same and 7 much better than 2017. The Drivers questionnaire also used a 7 point scale where 1 was very unlikely, 4 neutral and 7 very likely.

More than 4,600 candidates and 624 hirers answered the survey, with candidates from a wide range of industries, including fresh graduates and those in top management positions. The questions in the survey were standardised, but translated with descriptions for each market, allowing the survey to be understood in a local context. Surveys were conducted via online survey forms.
